There are a number of other things that you can do to help your child with their reading. For example, you can read to them every day, even if it's just for a few minutes. You can also encourage them to read to you. This will help them to develop their reading skills and confidence. Another thing you can do is to make reading a fun activity. You can read to them in a comfortable place, like a bed or a chair, and you can use different voices to make the story more interesting. You can also use pictures to help them understand the story. For example, you can show them a picture of a cat and read the word 'cat' to them. This will help them to associate the word with the picture and make it easier for them to remember. Finally, you can encourage them to read to their friends or family. This will help them to practice their reading skills and make it a more enjoyable experience.
